Job Overview

The Associate, Legal will have patent law experience and a background in intellectual property transactions within the life sciences industry. This position will primarily support and work with DRI's investment team as an integral member of the team executing investments. In addition, the position will have general duties within the broader legal department, including responsibilities related to asset monitoring, valuation, fund governance, compliance and litigation matters. This role can be based out of Miami, where DRI's Chief Legal Officer will be based or Toronto, where DRI's Associate General Counsel is based.

Skills and Qualifications:

- 3+ years as an intellectual property attorney focused on the pharmaceutical/biotech industry and having transactional experience at either a law firm or in-house legal department.
- JD required and admission to the bar in Ontario, Florida or New York.
- A graduate degree in biology or chemistry is preferred.
- Strong communication skills: ability to present clear and practical legal arguments
- Strong analytical and problem-solving skills and attention to detail
- An interest in, and willingness to take on responsibility for, non-IP matters to support the legal department's other responsibilities within DRI.
- Self-motivated and proactive; eager to take ownership and able to advance work independently
